LOOK OUT FOR WEAVER.

The man who neglects to read the political signs of the times, says the Sacramento Bee, and who contents himself with shutting one eye and glancing at the old road boards, can certainly see nothing of the stupendous changes in parties going on all around. Those who perceive and keep silence thereon, letting the party to which they profess to belong snore on in fancied security, are nothing more than sunshine friends, who will be eager to rush under cover when the storm sets in. The Bee believes in pointing out dangers, not in concealing them. The danger to both the old parties is traveling westward now, making a great noise and clatter on its way, and its name is James B. Weaver. It is not the man himself who is so dangerous, were it not for the propelling force which is behind him. He is the battering ram, manned by a view, a vigorous, a growing party, and willing hands are dashing him with tremendous force against the old party walls.

Let the Republicans make no mistake about the new engine of political warfare. Let them not fancy that it is a mere toy, swinging carelessly back and forth, and only striking the time-honored barriers with insignificant taps. Watch the thousands who have rallied to help him in his assaults throughout Colorado. Wait until he gets in Nevada and sees the dents he will make in the old political creeds there, particularly in the Republican party. Make no mistake as to his strength in Oregon, for thousands there are ready to help him in his assaults. Do not delude yourself into the belief that he will have no followers here in Sacramento. The grip of the Republican party is loosening on the workers, and many of the toilers in the great railroad shops are more than likely to cast their political fortunes this year with the new organization.

The cause of it is not far to seek. None could be so blind as not to see the hand of monopoly all over the Minneapolis Convention. The published statements of great organs and leaders of the party that "the nominations were especially pleasing to the bankers" was the last straw to break the faith in the party of men who had pinned their trust to it through thick and thin.

San Francisco in New York.

People on this coast are led to believe that the movements of the San Francisco colony in New York are matters of great importance to the inhabitants of Gotham. This idea is carried out by the Chronicle and Examiner, keeping regular correspondents in New York, who wire long strings of slush weekly regarding the ex-Californians who reside on Manhattan Island.

Now as a matter of fact the people of New York are not only perfectly indifferent to the movement of the San Francisco colony in the East, but hardly know of their existence.

While their wealth gives them great prestige in San Francisco, they are perfect nonentities when they get east of the Missouri river.

Even for the notoriety they get in the San Francisco papers they have to pay liberally. Here is a specimen of the stuff under discussion:

French poodles seem to be the popular pet of the moment, and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and her sister, Miss Fair, were greatly distressed when theirs was run over and killed in Newport last week.

The next thing we will hear of will be the sort of grub these people feed their cats on, or some such foolishness.

The only consolation in the information is that the weak minded people of the Coast are all moving to the Atlantic seaboard.

A. Livingston now practically controls the wholesale liquor trade of the city. He is continually adding to his stock and sells only standard brands. He is also introducing some excellent California wines to the people of Carson, as well as foreign and domestic cigars of the finest quality. Drop in and inspect his stock. d 13 tf
